FOREWORD

The records for this book were gathered by William F. Wyckoff, of Jamaica, Long Island, a labor of love beginning in his young manhood and lasting until his death. It is unfortunate that the book could not have been printed during his lifetime. If all his material could have been used, this would be a better book: but the situation compelled much abridgement, and there have been many handicaps personal to the writer of this paragraph.

THE WYCKOFF FAMILY IN AMERICA

CHAPTER I

PIETER CLAESEN

The founder of the WYCKOFF family in America came to Fort Orange[1], Province of New Netherland, 7 April, 1637, in the vessel Rensselaerswyck[2]. This ship sailed from Amsterdam, Holland, 25 September, 1636: anchored off the seaport The Texel[3], 8 October, 1636: reached New Amsterdam[4], New Netherland, 13 March, 1637: and

"Tuesday 7 April 1637, about three o'clock in the morning we came to anchor before foert oeranien[5] the end of our voyage upward."[6]

The Rensselaerswyck was outfitted by Killian Van Rensselaer, a diamond merchant of Amsterdam, Holland, who had a speculative contract with the West India Corporation for a concession of a large body of land near the head of navigable waters on the Hudson River, under which he was required to transport men and animals to the new country.

This Wyckoff progenitor was a boy about twelve years of age, called PIETER CLAESEN at the time, which was another form of Pieter Claes[7], which, according to Dutch usage, stood for Peter, son of Claus. Pieter came from Norden or Nordingen in East Friesland. He is mentioned as a servant of Symon Walichsz and arrived on the Rensselaerswyck with the latter.

[1] Later named Beverwyck: now called Albany in the State of New York, U. S. A.

[2] Spelled Rinselaers Wijck by the captain of the vessel in his log.

[3] An island between the Zuider Zee and the North Sea.

[4] Now that part of the Borough of Manhattan in the City of New York, between the Battery and Wall Street.

[5] Dutch spelling for Fort Orange.

[6] Log of the ship Rensselaerswyck.

[7] Other spellings are: Pieter Nicolaussen van Nordinge, Munsell, Annals of Albany: Pieter Claesz and Niclaesz, Van Rensselaer-Bowier manuscripts.

Pieter Claesen settled his wages with the Van Rensselaer organization from 3 April, 1637 to August, 1644. This settlement date suggests the arrival at manhood or majority by Pieter.

Probably at about this time Pieter married GRIETJE, a daughter of Cornelis Hendrick Van Ness. Cornelis seems to have figured as an official in the settlement of Beverwyck, and is also spoken of as a brewer on the east shore of the Hudson River, opposite Fort Orange. Pieter's two oldest children must have been born before he left Fort Orange. Records kept by the Reformed Dutch Church of Fort Orange, established in 1619, have disappeared.

In official records now on file in Albany, Pieter Claesen is spoken of as carrying on farming operations with his father-in-law. There is one incident mentioned in court records wherein Pieter and his father-in-law are concerned in a trial in which some testimony was given which Pieter considered false, and Pieter bawled out: "He's a liar."

Pieter Claesen probably moved directly from Fort Orange to New Amersfoort[8] in 1649, as suggested by a record as having left Fort Orange before 5 June, 1649, and his first recorded purchase of property on 27 May, 1652, in New Amersfoort. Inasmuch as the Indian conveyance of title to the Keskachauge district is dated 16 June, 1636, the Wyckoff family was one of the earliest to settle there. In Pieter's day, the records indicate that it was a live settlement, with Canarsie Lane leading directly to the Flatbush settlement, and The Kings Highway to the Brooklyn shore opposite the lower part of Manhattan.

[8]A Dutch village probably named after the village of Amersfoort in Holland: located on Long Island, New York, in the area called Keskachauge by the (Pequot) Indians: name changed to Flatlands after the English took possession in 1664: now called the 32nd Ward of the Borough of Brooklyn, City of New York.

During the residence of Pieter Claesen in New Amersfoort, which covered a period of about forty-five years, he was associated with many other Dutch colonists with names that still continue to be household words in Brooklyn. His children married into these families, as shown by the records. Many of his descendants went early to the Raritan district in New Jersey where their families expanded into numerous yeomanry groups.

Records of the Reformed Dutch Church of New Amsterdam, established in 1633, tell of the baptism of two of Pieter's children: "Annetje, baptized 27 Nov. 1650: Mayken, baptized 19 Oct. 1653." They were baptized there because that was the only church within reach at that time. Some original records in the Dutch language[9], of the Flatlands Dutch Reformed Church, are in existence, and contain much data of interest to the Wyckoff family. Dutch churches were organized in 1661 in Flatlands, at Flatbush, and at Bushwick, on Long Island. Up to that date all church affiliations must have been with the Dutch Church in New Amsterdam. This accounts for the registration of the baptisms of his two children in this church. For some reason we find no birth or marriage entries in the Flatlands Church records.

There are four documents in existence, all relating to one piece of acreage property, the earliest one dated 27 May, 1652 and on record, and the last one dated 28 September, 1658, showing that Pieter Claesen purchased said property from Wolphert Gerritsen Couwenhoven.

"CONTRACT[10] TO SUPERINTEND THE BOUWERY[11] AND CATTLE OF DIRECTOR STUYVESANT AT AMESFOORT.

"The Hon^ble^ Cornelis van Tienhoven, Fiscal of New Netherland, attorney of the Hon^ble^ Petrus Stuyvesant Director General of the one part, and Peter Claesen of the other part have agreed and contracted in a friendly and amicable manner in the form and on the terms underwritten,

To wit:

"The above named Peter Claesen shall fodder and winter according to custom all the cattle, which the said Hon^ble^ General has at present on his bouwery at Amesfoort, both young and old, big and little, without any exception; he shall also sow all the land that is fit for planting, provided that he shall deduct from the rent and bring into account the grain he has sowed therein. For said wintering of all the cattle and sowing of the suitable land, said Peter Claesen shall be paid the sum of 325 guilders, in words, three hundred and twenty-five guilders, on condition that he leave the manure of his own and the General's cattle on the bouwery.

"For the performance thereof the respective parties pledge their persons and properties.

"Done at Amsterdam in New Netherland the 10th of July, 1655."

An old Dutch house still stands on Canarsie Lane, near the very early old Dutch road called The Kings Highway in the Flatlands district, which has never been inhabited by other than a Wyckoff family from the earliest date to which it can be traced, down to 1901. It has always been a lawyer's puzzle.

[10]Colonial Documents.
[11]Plantation or farm.

There exists today quite a large roll of old deeds that came out of that house, conveying property from one Wyckoff to another, one of the earliest of which is dated 13 May, 1690, from Pieter Cornelissen Luyster and Jannetie Pietersen, his wife, to Klaas[2] Pieterse. This Klaas[12] Pieterse was the oldest son of Pieter[1] Claesen.

That old house has been examined by an expert to determine the detail of its construction. While now a fairly large house, and a good example of early Dutch construction, it seems to have grown from a very simple home to its present form by two or three stages. A book called KESKACHAUGE by Frederick Van Wyck, a lawyer well known in Brooklyn, who has done much searching of titles in Flatlands, has much to say about this old Wyckoff home.

He leads us to think it may have been erected by Governor Van Twiller about 1638. Governor Van Twiller was relieved from his administration of New Amsterdam, 2 September, 1637, and returned to Holland from whence he never returned. The titles to his properties were annulled 1 July, 1652 by ordinance.

While governor, many people had complained of Van Twiller's avarice in acquiring titles to many grants of land from the Indians. One of these grants was at the so-called Keskachauge where Flatlands lies. There is correspondence on file in which Van Twiller says he built houses on some of his properties.

Van Wyck tells of an early occupant of the old Canarsie Lane Wyckoff House, who said that it was a Van Twiller house. Is it a far stretch of the imagination to think of this house, or the earliest part of it, as being the home of [12]Also spelled: Claas, Claus, Claes and Nicholas.

Pieter Claesen and his little family, on the property he occupied before and after his lease was made with Governor Petrus Stuyvesant, and that it was a property taken from Van Twiller by the Dutch Government and administered by its later representative, Petrus Stuyvesant? At any rate, there seems to be no agreement amongst real estate lawyers on the origin of title to this early home of the Wyckoffs.[13]

Pieter Claesen was a schepen or magistrate during the years 1655, 1662 and 1663. At this day it seems peculiar that during their lifetimes, Pieter Claesen and Grietje Van Ness should have continued to use the names they held before marriage, but it seems to have been the Dutch custom. Notwithstanding all the controversies that have arisen in regard to the Wyckoff name, the clear fact remains that on the old documents, where the heirs show their agreements in regard to the distribution of their father's property, the sons all sign up as Wyckoffs, although they spell the name in many ways. At that time some children were dead, and the grandchildren were represented by guardians.

Much speculation has been indulged in, to account for the name Wyckoff, the earliest public appearance of which occurs in the Dutch Reformed Church records of births, baptisms and marriages in Flatbush, and as follows:

"The Roll[16] off those who have Taken the oath off allegiance in the kings County in the Province of New Yorke the 26:27: 28:29 and 30th day off September In the Third yeare of his Maytsh Raigne annoque Domine 1687 away on 30 June, 1694,[19] and certainly previous to 11 March, 1697. An old agreement in the Dutch language, dated 11 March, 1697 and signed by four of his sons, speaks of their father as "lately deceased."

Three deeds exist, signed apparently by all his existing heirs, distributing his real estate, some of it to Gerrit Wyckoff, some of it to Hendrick Wyckoff, and some of it to Claes Wyckoff. The deed to Gerrit[20] is dated 19 May, 1699. The deeds to Hendrick[21] and Claes[22] are both dated 21 May, 1703. The Gerrit deed has the name of his mother Grietje Van Ness as its last signature, and her name is not on the other two deeds.

A map made 23 April, 1719 by John Verkirk, deputy surveyor, is printed in this book, reproduced from the original[23], on which is shown a division of property owned in common by the citizens of Flatlands. On this map is shown a dark area called ONTHEVIDED. Expert opinion at this time believes that the old Wyckoff House of Canarsie Lane stands on that onthevided (undivided) area, title to which was disputed at the time that division took place. It was certainly occupied by a Wyckoff family, by some partially unknown right.

Whatever the difficulties in 1719, they were cured by later agreements, as shown by the many old deeds[24] that were kept together in that old house. It is a very interesting fact that the agreement[28] in the Dutch language, and the three deeds of settlement by the Wyckoff heirs, which we reproduce in this book, have reached us through four entirely separate channels, and were only recently brought together after the lapse of over two hundred years.

Teunis G. Bergen, in his Early Settlers of Kings County, gives a large amount of information relating to the early Wyckoffs. Charles A. Hoppin, a well known author of colonial history, has written a very interesting article on Pieter Claesen in The Washington Ancestry and Records of the McClain, Johnson and Forty Other Colonial American Families.

There is a tradition that Pieter Claesen was buried under the pulpit of the Dutch Reformed Church of Flatlands. A good sized volume could be written about Pieter, out of the records that are obtainable in many directions, but there is a limit to what can be mentioned in this sketch.

[28]The agreement in Dutch, signed by four sons of Pieter Claesen soon after his death, was held in 1911, by H. B. Davenport, president of the Home Title Insurance Company of Brooklyn, New York.

CHAPTER II

GRIETJE VAN NESS

If the founder of the Wyckoff name be entitled to mention in this book, surely the mother of this great clan should get fair consideration: and she had some advantages to talk about. There seems to have been some distinction of station, even amongst the Dutch. Many of the plain people carried no family name. With them, it was always a coupling of the two names of child and father, like Pieter Claes. Others of apparently higher social or property advantages carried a family name from one generation to another.

Grietje Van Ness[1] was a daughter of Cornelis Hendrick Van Ness and Maycke Hendrieux van den Burchgraeff. Cornelis[2] was a son of Hendrick Gerritse Van Nes of Emberland, Holland. Maycke[3] was the daughter of Hendrick Adriaense van den Burchgraeff and Annetje Janse of Laeckervelt, Holland.

"Appeared Annetje Jans, widow of Hendrick Adriaenz, dwelling at Laeckersvelt, assisted by Roeloff Dircxe Stout, sheriff of Laeckervelt her chosen guardian in this matter, sound in body and able to go about and in full possession of her understanding and memory as far as we, the sheriff and magistrate can see and judge; considering that nothing is more certain to mankind than death, and nothing more uncertain than the hour thereof, and in anticipation of this uncertainty desiring before all to dispose of her temporal estate which has been granted to her by God Almighty, and therefore in the first place revoking and annulling, as she hereby does revoke and annul, all former testaments dispositions and last wills by her before the date hereof in presence of the court, or notary and witnesses in any manner made or executed and therefore disposing anew, she has willed and provided, as she hereby does will and provide, that Adriaen Hendriexsx, her, the testatrix's son, after her death for his portion of the estate left by her shall have and inherit a certain house and morgen and a half of land with the plants and crops thereon standing, such and in manner as said Adriaen now occupies them:

"Likewise that Maeyken Hendricx, her, the testatrix's daughter, shall also have and inherit for her portion three morgens of land more or less, with all the plants and crops on the same, situate and lying in Scherpenwyck in this jurisdiction, and the remaining estate shall be divided and received and enjoyed by said Adriaen and Maeycken Hendricx equally, share and share alike; instituting hereby with a (clasp of the) hand her said two children in manner aforesaid as her universal heirs or, failing them, their children in their place; provided that said Maeygen Hendrics shall be holden to pay over to Adriaen Hendricxe, her brother, the sum of one hundred and fifty guilders, and also under the express condition and provision that the said Maeygen Hendricx, the testatrix's daughter shall not sell, encumber, or alienate the said three morgens and whatever else may come to her, the testatrix, by the death of relatives; on the contrary, that she shall enjoy only the yearly fruits thereof and no more.

"And in case the said Maeygen Hendricx happens to die before her children, said three morgens of land shall neither wholly or in part be sold or alienated before the youngest thereof shall come of age; and should any of Maeygen Hendricx's children happen to die without lawful issue, the portion, of the same shall devolve upon the others, and so on to the last, and all dying (the land shall revert) to the side whence it came.

"All of which she, the testatrix, declares to be her last will and testament, desiring that the same in all its points and manner aforesaid shall be executed, be it as testament, codocil, last will, or otherwise as the same may best comport with the laws, notwithstanding that some formalities required in the matter may not have been observed herein. Thus done at the house of her, the testatrix, in presence of Roeloff Stout, sheriff, Adriaen Cornelisz, and Adriaen Jansz Brouwer, magistrates at Laeckervelt, who with the testatrix and me, the secretary, have subscribed the original hereof, the 12th of June, XVIc and thirty-five.

"(Underneath was written) Extracted from the Schepen record of Laeckervelt and upon collation the foregoing was found to agree therewith. Done this 7th of Sept. 1646 by me, the secretary there. Was subscribed: C. V. MUYDEN."[4]

The mother of Grietje Van Ness was certainly living on the 22 July, 1658, when she attended the sale of goods[5] of Jan de Groot at Fort Orange. Cornelis seems to have appeared at Fort Orange, Province of New Netherland, in 1641. He was able, educated, and a brewer by business.

Records of the marriage of Grietje and the birth of her first two children, have been very much sought after, but their absence may be accounted for by the destruction of the old church records at Albany. In the calendar of wills at Albany appears a document under date of 21 March, 1664, signed by Cornelis van Ness, in which he states that he is about to remarry, and that he wishes to secure his children by his first wife, Maycke Hendriux van den Burchgraeff, naming them in the following order:

1 Gerritie Cornelis, wife of Roeliff Cornelissen.
2 Hendricke Cornelis, wife of Jan Jensen van Oothout.
3 Hendrick.
4 Gerrit.
5 Jan.
6 Grietie Cornelis, wife of Pieter Claessen of Amesfoort, Long Island.

It will be noted that Grietje named one of her daughters Mayken after her mother, and another Annetje after her grandmother; also that four of her sons are named after her father and brothers. Grietje van Ness outlived her husband Pieter Claesen, and died between 1699 and 1703 at Flatlands, Long Island, New York.

The following two documents are of interest, showing that the father of Grietje Van Ness in 1659 purchased a body of land in the neighborhood of his son-in-law Pieter Claesen at Amersfoort, and in 1678, his title to same was confirmed by the town authorities, showing that at that time, within three years of his death, he was still the owner.

CHAPTER III

THE OLD WYCKOFF HOME

By Frank L. Van Cleef, Ph.D.

The lot upon which the old Wyckoff House on Canarsie Lane stands, has been identified as the plot marked Onthevided Land on the map (cf. page 17) of the woodlands of the town of Flatlands, of date 1719. To the southeast of this plot on the map lies No. 1 of the woodland allotments. The tract marked Onthevided Land and Lot No. 1 both extend to the northeast beyond Canarsie Lane, so that the portion on the northeast side of the Lane is nearly equal in size to that on the southwest side of said Lane.

Prior to the year 1719, when the division of the Canarsie woodlands shown on the map mentioned was made, an attempt had been made to divide these same woodlands in the year 1705, the only information regarding which is to be found in two entries in the county records: in Liber 4 of Conveyances, on pages 179 and 206. The substance of these two entries agrees, amounting to the following: on April 3rd, 1705, a meeting was held in the town of Amerfoort (Flatlands) and an agreement reached regarding as division of the common woods of Canarsie, Lucas Stevensen, Jan Terhune and Peter Neefeus being chosen for the purpose of laying out the same, to whom was given power to select what further assistance they needed. The entry of page 179 then proceeds to give by number the lots in the three proposed divisions that were drawn by John Terhune. The other entry on page 206 gives the same information for Claes Wyckoff, the latter receiving with other lots one lot of land No. 33, wide 54 rods, lying in the Great Division of Amersfoort. In the county records there are perhaps half a dozen instances in which particular lots in this early division are referred to, in each case the date of the instrument being between 1705 and 1719.

Van Wyck, in his recently published volume, interprets this record relating to the Wyckoff lots as a protest advanced by Wyckoff against the division of the woodlands proposed in 1719. The date of record of the Wyckoff entry is April 27, 1719, only a few days before the division of 1719 was to take effect. The Terhune record gives no date, but from its position in the liber cannot be later than April 18, nine days before the Wyckoff entry.

Van Wyck's reasoning, based on the Wyckoff entry, is about as follows: the land to the southwest of the Canarsie Road, on which the old Wyckoff House now stands, together with the land to the southeast, included in 1719, in Lot No. 1 of the woodlands, had been in the possession of the Wyckoff family for a long period of time, having been formerly owned by Governor Stuyvesant whose agent was Pieter Claesen, the first of the Wyckoffs, and probably upon the retirement of Stuyvesant from the Government, was turned over to the agent Wyckoff who continued to reside on the property and to make use of it as his own.

This piece of land, the town of Flatlands now assumed, and by virtue of that claimed ownership, included it within the woodlands which were before owned in common. The Wyckoff entry in Liber 4, Van Wyck holds was a protest advanced by Claes Wyckoff against the town's action, on the ground that this property had been in the ownership of the Wyckoff family for over fifty years.

This assumption of Van Wyck may be an approximation of the truth, but, as it seems to us, is not the complete explanation. By the information gained from the Wyckoff notice, we are fairly informed that the Wyckoff claim to the land to the southeast of the old house was based on the earlier division of the woodlands in 1705. Consequently it is unnecessary to go back of that date to assert the Wyckoff ownership. If, however, in the earlier division of the woodlands in 1705, the numbering of the lots had begun with the most northerly lot of the easterly division and then proceeded southerly and then again northerly up the second half or westerly tier of lots, that is, exactly the reverse of the system used in 1719, the result would have been that the Wyckoff Lot No. 33 would have been found to the southeast of the lot on which the old house stands. This assumption is not a forced one. Supposing this to have been the case, then there would have been sufficient reason to justify the Wyckoffs in entering the protest against the voiding of the old allotment.

Under the explanation offered above, it can be easily understood why Claes Wyckoff should have desired that the old division of the woodlands made in 1705 should prevail. His lot (No. 33) adjoined the ancestral house. His protest was, however, unavailing. The new division of the woodlands went through and prevailed, and the lot adjoining the old Wyckoff House property on the southeast was allotted to Coert Voorhees by whom the portion below on the southwest of the Canarsie Road was sold to Johannes Lott, as per the county records.

Afterwards, as we learn from an unrecorded deed, this same plot was sold by Coert Voorhees who seems to have obtained it back from Johannes Lott, to Peter Wyckoff, son of Claes Wyckoff, in 1737. In this way the wishes of the Wyckoffs were at last realized. As to the lot on which the old house stood, the Onthevided Land on the 1719 map, the deed from Coert Voorhees to Johannes Lott in 1719 gives the owner's name as Auke Van Voorhees.

It is not likely that this plot was ever owned by any one except the Wyckoffs. It may be that Auke Van Voorhees's name appears by reason of his occupation of the plot as a tenant or by reason of his later marriage with a Wyckoff. It is known that Peter Wyckoff, the eldest son of Claes Wyckoff, removed to New Jersey, to come back to Flatlands later. In that absence Auke Van Voorhees may have been the occupant of the old house with its plot of land.

This explanation would seem to explain all the facts in the case known to us. As to the Wyckoff farm which may have been connected with the old house, this suggestion is offered: that it may have been the plot to the northwest, which in 1794 is found in the possession of Benjamin Bennet. But from whom he obtained the property is not known. Our idea is that this constituted the first Wyckoff farm, being derived from the Stuyvesant ownership, as before suggested.

This was added to by the granting to the Wyckoffs of the woodlot to the southeast, which allotment was rescinded by the town and the family forced to purchase the same from the allottee of the town. Owning thus the entire stretch along Canarsie Lane, the portion to the northwest of the old house was probably sold off to the Bennets and the balance retained in the Wyckoff family.

CHAPTER V

NICHOLAS WYCKOFF

2. NICHOLAS[2] (or CLAES PIETERSE[2]) WYCKOFF (Pieter Claesen[1]), born about 1646 at Beverwyck (Albany); died after Feb. 24, 1714-15; married about 1672, Sara, daughter of Pieter Monfoort and Sarah (de Plancken). She was baptized April 2, 1656; the records of Flatlands Dutch Reformed Church have at Dec. 31, 1704, the entry "Claes Wyckoff for grave and shroud for his wife, 24 fl(orins)."

There is a deed to Claes Wyckoff dated May 13, 1690, from Pieter Cornelissen Luyster and his wife Jannetie Pietersen, of a farm property in Flatlands, for a consideration of £637, 7 shillings. Another deed dated May 21, 1703, takes title from the heirs of Pieter Claesen, of lands, consideration £100. His last known document, found in the old Wyckoff house, is a deed dated Feb. 24, 1714-15, to his son, Pieter Wyckoff of Middletown, County of Monmouth, N. J., consideration £425, of 48 acres in Flatlands, also a house, barn, orchard, etc. The mark of Claes in signing documents is an anchor, flukes upward.

Children on record:

8. PIETER, born 1675.
9. JACOBUS, baptized Sept. 30, 1676.

NICHOLAS, baptized Feb. 16, 1679; died young.

SARA, baptized Feb. 27, 1681; married John Ammerman.

NOTE. The Flatlands Dutch Reformed Church records have the entries: "April 18, 1688, Claes Pieterse's child, grave, 7 florins, 10 stivers; April 25, 1688, Claes Pieterse's child, 6 florins; Sept. 1690, Claes Pieterse's child, 9 fl."

10. Cornelius, baptized Aug. 5, 1683.

Antie, died July 15, 1766; married Sept. 16, 1713, Stephen Janse Schencke, born Jan. 22, 1686, died Nov. 6, 1768. Ten children.

8. Pieter[3] Wyckoff (Nicholas[2], Pieter Claesen[1]), born about 1675; died 1759; married first in 1696, Willemtje Jansen Schenck; married secondly, Anne Elizabeth —— who survived him. He removed from Flatlands to New Jersey; a deed dated April 12, 1710, from Obadiah Bowne of Middletown, N. J. to Peter Wecof or Wicoff of the same place is for 90 acres, consideration £90. A deed dated Feb. 24, 1714-15, to property in Flatlands, from his father, Claes, to him, then in Middletown, N. J., suggests that he was returning to Flatlands at about that time, to the old Wyckoff farm. His will, made at Flatlands, May 25, 1753, probated March 23, 1759, is recorded in the New York City Surrogate's office. A deed of 1751, from him to his son, Pieter, Jr., is of land in Flatlands, called Haw's Hook, and meadows; consideration £300. Another deed, dated April 4, 1753, from Pieter Wickhof to Pieter Wickhof, Jr., is of several pieces of land: 15 acres at Flatlands Neck; and four lots of salt meadow at Varkhoeck's Vley, bears a signature evident of weakness.

Children, all mentioned in his will, many baptized at First Dutch Church of Freehold, N. J.:

11. Nicholas.
12. Pieter, Jr., born Mar. 28, 1704.
13. John, born 1705.
14. Jacobus.

Antie, baptized Feb. 18, 1711; married Nicholas Johnson.

J., to Pieter Wickoff, Jr., his father, 150 acres of land in Somerset County, consideration £600. Another deed, dated Apr. 28, 1770, is from John Wickof and Sara, his wife, of Somerset County, N. That Bushwick farm of nearly two hundred acres of upland, has grown in public importance by reason of its absorption into a great city. It stretched from Flushing Avenue to Myrtle Avenue and overlapped both, and was intersected by the three important avenues of St. Nicholas, Wyckoff and Cypress, names suggested by family association.

He probably built the larger part of the Wyckoff homestead at 1325 Flushing Avenue, as well as the big barn at the rear, with its date of 1788 chiselled into an oak beam over the big front doors. The smaller northwest portion of the house is an older structure. This must have come from John Schenck, whose family was buried in a family plot at the rear of the barn now called "the hovel," an older structure than the 1788 barn.

CHAPTER VII

CORNELIUS WYCKOFF (4)

1. CORNELIUS[2] (Pieter Claesen[1]), born about 1656; died 1746; married Oct. 5, 1678, Geertje (Charity) or Gertrude, daughter of Symon Janse Van Arsdalen. On March 15, 1678, he purchased of Symon Hansen Van Nostrand for 1600 gilders, a farm consisting of about 195 acres and including Lots 30 and 31 and other land in the Patent of the New Lots of Flatbush, generally known as Oustwood. This property included all the land lying between the present Pennsylvania Avenue and Van Siclen Avenue running from the Brooklyn and Jamaica Turnpike to the Bay. On this farm he resided until his death.

He quickly demonstrated his ability and accumulated a considerable fortune. In 1701, with some others he bought 1000 acres of land in Somerset County, N. J. This was sold at a considerable profit. Later he purchased another tract between Millstone and Middlebush in N. J., and when his sons John, Peter and Jacob were married he gave 300 acres to each. Much of this land has remained among his descendants. He was a man highly thought of by his neighbors and was for many years a church warden of the Dutch Church in Flatbush of which he was a member. About the year 1690, he and his wife made a joint will which is recorded in the Town records of Flatbush. His wife died first and Cornelius then made another will. In this will he devised to his sons Simon, John, Peter and Jacob, the several tracts upon which they lived containing 300 acres each. He divided a farm at New Lots between his two sons, Nicholas and Hendrick. They then made a division of this farm, Nicholas taking the western half and Hendrick the eastern half and they opened a lane as the dividing line which was called Wyckoff's Lane as late as 1890. It is now known as Wyona Street, in the 26th Ward of the Borough of Brooklyn, City of New York. All six of his sons had given their father bonds in payment of the several farms each received and the executors were directed to collect these bonds and pay certain legacies for his daughters.

He was buried in the old church yard nearly opposite the present New Lots Dutch Church, immediately adjoining the new school house. His grave is unmarked. This graveyard is not the present graveyard adjoining the church. He bought and sold various parcels of land in Queens County but they were not of much importance.

He inherited a large farm on the borders of New Lots from his father and lived there all his life and added a great deal of land to his inheritance. He was a man of mark in the Town of Jamaica, one of the staunch supporters of the Dutch Reformed Church in Jamaica and for many years one of his majesty's justices. He took a very active part in the affairs of the town.

He resided at a farm given to him by his father at Middlebush, N. J. He seems to have been a very energetic and popular man, very positive in his opinions and always insisting on his rights. There soon arose a great dispute over the titles in East Jersey. At that time Perth Amboy was the principal town. East Jersey was at that time all New Jersey lying east of the line from Barnegat Bay to the Delaware Water Gap and was granted by Royal Grant to an Association of Englishmen who had their offices at Perth Amboy. British troops were sent out to evict the settlers who resisted by force. In all these troubles, Simon was the principal leader and was recognized by the English Government as the principal disturbing element in the difficulties. Finally a body of the troops were sent out, captured and put him in jail in Perth Amboy but all his neighbors followed, attacked the jail and triumphantly carried Simon home. He was a very successful farmer and acquired large plots of land in Hunterdon County which he gave to his sons. Simon was a member of the One Mile Run Dutch Church, which is now the First Dutch Church of New Brunswick, N. J., the records of which begin in 1699. Further it is agreed that Hendrick Wychof shall have the house and about twenty morgens of land, less or more, and that from the lane, and abutting upon the stakes of Gerret Wyckhoff; and also one lot of meadow lying in the great meadow, commonly called the Great Meadow, about 8 rods wide; and further one lot of meadow on the Island, next to Koert Stevensen, Number 10; and further one lot of meadow at Kanarsick, to wit, in the Inner Meadow, Number 3: for which house and land and meadows aforesaid Hendrick Wychoff shall pay to the heirs of Pieter Claasen Wychoff the sum of two hundred and twenty-five pounds, this land's money, to the heirs of Pieter Clasen Wychof deceased.
